

Child Maintenance

When parents separate there is often confusion as to how much the absent parent should be paying to maintain the children.

Whilst the Child Support Agency has set very useful guidance such as 15% net income for 1 child, 20% for two children and 25% for three children there are an number of other areas which can complicate matters further.

What about the case where the parent is self-employed and seeking to hide their wealth in the business or those cases where their lifestyle far exceeds their stated income.

We are able to advice all clients on the appropriate settlement for child maintenance and draw up child maintenance agreements.

Simply email us an enquiry and we will ensure you of the best advice.
